We are especially proud to announce Claude Cummings Jr.
president of the Communications Workers of America will join this year's Summit as an honored guest and keynote speaker.
President Cummings was elected in 2023 as the first African American leader of North America's largest communications, media, and public sector workers union.

The Summit for Civil Rights is a gathering of prominent clergy, labor leaders, civil rights leaders, elected officials, and scholars to address the economic and social underpinnings of the populist upheaval of the past decade and to renew, and put forward a nonpartisan agenda for fully inclusive middle-class opportunity in work, schools, and housing.

This year's Summit will feature a conversation with the New Jersey candidates for governor.
