Friday, June 6, 2014

from 10:00 am – 3:30 pm*

Ehrnfelt Recreation and Senior Center, Strongsville

A regional forum on the unique but common challenges of middle class suburbs and small cities of Northeast Ohio. The event will bring together local elected, civic and community leaders with state, and federal policy makers to seek bipartisan solutions to common challenges facing middle class communities around issues of housing, schools, transportation and water infrastructure investments.

A major theme of this forum will be the federal surface transportation bill. This multiyear infrastructure bill, which expires this year, presents an opportunity for us to address many of our most pressing issues while demonstrating a bipartisan consensus and common sense voice for meaningful action with our state and federal officials.

Building One Ohio, an emerging coalition of local elected, business, labor, religious and educational leaders from middle-class communities, is organizing the Summit, in cooperation with Building One America, a growing national network of regional and statewide organizations. Cleveland State University is the lead sponsor for the Summit. Major sponsors include Laborers International Union of North America Local 860.
